

For ages and ages,

And for an eternity of eternities.

For there is no God apart from Him,¹⁴

5 And there is no God beside Him.

Blessed is His name in each generation

And blessed in the heavens on high.

Blessed is His name with its might,

And blessed its mention with the beauty of His power.

For as His name so is His praise as it has been said (in scripture): As is your name, O God, so is your praise to the ends of the earth; your right hand is full of righteousness.¹⁵

He brings the pure to reverence Him,¹⁶

And in His wrath drives away the impure.

He moves mountains by His might and strength,

They did not know when He overturned them in His wrath.¹⁷

He holds the world as a cluster of grapes,

30 Bearing all that was, is, and will be.¹⁸

He is the Ancient of Days,¹⁹

¹⁴Cf. 2 Sam 22:32.

¹⁵This is a prose gloss which breaks the continuity of the hymn.

¹⁶Literally, "to His fear," i.e., to worship and magical practices.

¹⁷Cf. Job 9:5.

¹⁸Cf. Heb 1:3.

¹⁹Cf. Dan 7:9.
